

Storage-as-a-Service

Flexible cloud provisioning, delivered in the data centre.

Pay only for what you use, so you never have to over-provision storage again with TelecityGroup Storage-as-a-Service.

Your IT has to work hard to keep you ahead of the game and storage is a critical part of that infrastructure. With the added challenges presented by data protection laws and security threats, you need to keep your data safe, while ensuring compliance with regulatory best practice.

Enterprise-quality storage resources offer a solution, but you won't want to invest in the hardware or pay for the privilege of using it upfront, let alone manage it yourself. Complex planning cycles are an inconvenience on your time and resource – and you almost always need to provision more than what's needed.

Overview

TelecityGroup's Storage-as-a-Service solution offers enterprise-quality storage, uniquely configurable so you can locate storage wherever works best for your business needs.

Combining flexibility, with dedicated physical storage delivered locally from within TelecityGroup's state of the art data centre facilities, cloud-based storage offers an attractive opex-only commercial model that provides simple, on-demand provisioning. Secure cloud storage is available locally, with guaranteed performance and security for added peace of mind.

A Storage-as-a-Service model allows you to maintain control of your IT assets with the same level of configurability that you'd find in physical storage arrays, but with the added benefits of a cloud environment. Offering encryption – both at-rest and in-flight, with dedicated hardware and networking resources provisioned via TelecityGroup's European-only operations, our storage solution is built for security and performance with strict adherence to European privacy laws.

Enjoy the agility of the cloud with the security and reliability you can expect from an enterprise data centre, with Storage-as-a-Service from TelecityGroup.

Benefits

Flexible: you don't have to buy the equipment. Nor do you have to get involved with complex leases. We provide the service, and you pay only for what's used. No capex, just opex.

Dedicated to you: hardware that's dedicated to you, providing complete isolation for your data, to avoid 'noisy neighbour' syndrome, along with removing any security or data sovereignty concerns.

Adaptability: by renting the physical hardware, organisations are able to scale the service in both directions using our simple management portal to create a solution specific to their needs.

Secure: IT teams are in control of deciding which underlying file system and encryption options to use. You own your private encryption keys with TelecityGroup physically unable to inspect, or decrypt your data.

Compatible: whether your application is designed for a traditional enterprise environment or for the public cloud, the service provides flexible and future-proof storage compatible with a choice of object storage APIs.

24/7 Management: the service is managed 24/7, giving you peace of mind that it's always available and always working. If something goes wrong, we will fix it. No fuss, no bother.
